

“Every now and again, I look at my book to feel pretty when I’m feeling blah.”

BOUDIE CALLS

Today’s woman juggles many roles inside and outside the home. Feeling beat down by the daily routine, it’s hard to feel sexy. “Women can survive and conquer so much,” explains boudoir photographer Lori Line. “However, when it comes to the mountain of positive self-image, we often give up. This is what I hope to change.” Although Lori’s clients have various reasons or occasions for wanting a boudoir session, one truth remains the same, “women need to feel sexy,” says Lori.

Melissa, a client of LLP, describes her experience: “When it was getting close to our 10 year anniversary, I knew I wanted to do something really unique for my husband. I thought a boudoir would be perfect! Between our high demand careers and two children, I thought a little spice would be nice. I contacted a few photographers in the area but knew I needed Lori Line as soon as we spoke. From booking, to choosing the photos online for my album, to obtaining the final product, the entire process was super easy. She even helped me keep the entire thing a surprise! The final package was mailed direct to our house, incognito of course. Let me just say, my husband LOVES his Little Black Book!”

Laura, another client of LLP, explains what prompted her to make the call to Lori: “I am a working professional nurse. I have been married for 2 years and 3 months to the love of my life. I first decided to do the shoot when my husband complained about how little I wear lingerie. I had always considered doing a boudoir but never explored the idea until I discovered that I didn't have to be the skanky type. I chose the Chattanooga Package. I went ‘all out’ for the shoot, getting my hair and make-up done which really enhanced the pictures. I feel like my confidence has increased.”

Although many of Lori’s clients noted their boudoir sessions were to surprise the man in their lives, single gal Kelly had a different agenda. “I decided to do the shoot just for fun!” she explained.

“It was more for me than anyone else. With my curves, I have quite the booty,” she laughs. “I am so self-conscious about it but Lori made it beautiful in pictures. She will capture and flatter your best assets. Lori definitely knows what she's doing! Every now and again, I look at my book to feel pretty when I'm feeling blah. When I allowed a past boyfriend to see my book, he LOVED it and asked why he hadn't seen it sooner.”

“Between our high demand careers and two children, I thought a little spice would be nice.”

